

Lancaster Intelligencer.

MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 5, 1880.

A Dead Western City.

Michigan men, who have lately returned from Custer City, assert that the glory of the place has forever departed. In these days when a stranger in buckskin, loaded down with knives and revolvers, enters the town and yells out that he is the great Rocky Mountain Tex and spoiling to shed gore, no one gives him a second look. If he jumps into a saloon and slams down for the drinks for the crowd, the saloonier won't touch a decanter until he opens the bag to see if it isn't filled with brickbats. There was a time when a man could stand on the public square and hanker for a good old-fashioned rough-and-tumble fight and get it before he could flop his arm and drop away, but that time has fled. He can stand there and hanker and crowd and flop, and the old residents will laugh in contempt and ask why he doesn't start a taffy foundry in Custer.

There is no fun there any more. When a man jumps into a hotel dining-room with a bowie knife in his teeth and a revolver in each hand, he can't hit anybody if he shoots, and as soon as he begins shooting the guest nearest him rises up and then knocks him down with a piece of crockery, berry pie, or hits him in the eye with a broiled potato. It used to be great sport for Wild Bill to ride into town on a mule and shoot and yell and whoop and lash until everybody was in doors, but it is not done any more. The last one who tried it was knocked off his mule with a quart can of tomatoes and taken before the court, when his honor said:

"Thoughtless and giddy boy, you probably didn't mean any harm, but a feller who can't even wound a cross-eyed dog in firing twenty-four shots into a crowd shouldn't be seen in Custer City. The sentence of this court is that you have your hair cut, your leggings ripped off, and then be kicked out of the city, never to return under penalty of having your ears cropped."

Men used to go toiling up and down the main street picking their teeth with a huge knife and asking where the graveyard was, but even this game of bluff was cut short last fall when the constables attached the tooth-picks for debt and checked the pickers into the basement lock-up on suspicion that they were looking around to steal old axes and buck-saws. Hardly a month ago the "Great Tornado of the Plains" was wrecked down upon an axle handle and run in and fixed $93 because he stood on a barrel and yelled for some one to tread on his liver pad, and thereby disturbed four men who were in a house near by reading tracts.

Profit, $1,500. "To sum it all up, the years of bed-ridden sickness, costing $300 per year, total $1,200—of this expense was stopped by three bottles of Hop Bitters taken by my wife. She had her own household for a year since, without the loss of a day, and I want everybody to know it, for their benefit."

A Great Discovery by a Great Man. This, primarily, is what Warner's Safe Nervine is. The great man is one of the most famous living physicians. He found a humane remedy for all kinds of pain, others improved it, and the final result is, the Safe Nervine now manufactured only by H. H. Warner & Co., at 24w4d.
